

SERVICECUBE

Our oilfield service databases, with field-by-field coverage on global OFS demand and supply

Key questions

Which oilfield service segment has displayed the largest growth over the past year? How is upstream expenditure trending? Which oilfield service companies have grown their market share the most? What is the revenue outlook for the various service segments? Find all the answers in ServiceCube – a set of our Oilfield Service Databases covering supply and demand for the global oilfield service market.

ServiceCube enables you to

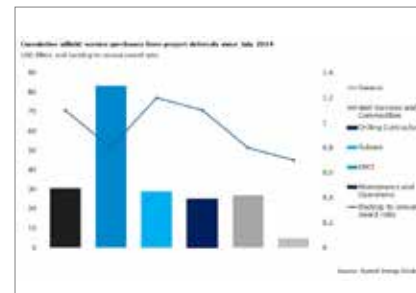

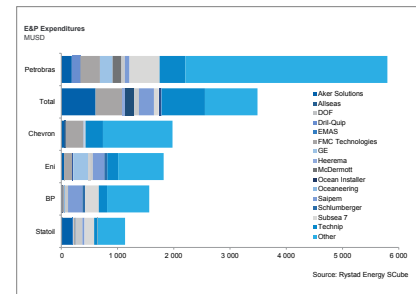

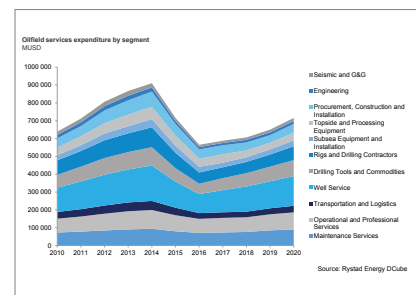

- Explore global upstream expenditure by OFS segment, geography, field life cycle and development solution
- Understand trends, development and size of individual oilfield service market
- Identify business development opportunities
- Obtain and benchmark revenue outlook for oilfield service market players
- Benchmark project costs, cost breakdowns, cost phasing and estimate new developments
- Get an immediate overview of E&P operator portfolios and their future spending plans
- Track contracts, order intake and backlog
- Map relationships between operators and service companies

Key features

- E&P budgets, oilfield service purchases and revenues
- Historical and forecasted demand data from 1990 to 2040, and supply data from 2005 to 2025
- Key parameters for water depth, facility, field type, resource type, field size and field life cycle
- 50+ service segments covered
- 500+ service companies and their profiles
- Reported revenue segments per company
- Both offshore and onshore markets covered
- Information on public awarded contracts
- Consists of Supplier database, Demand database and Service Analytics
- Biweekly updates

Ideal for

- Oilfield service companies
- Oil and gas company procurement departments
- Financial market players and investors
- Governments and governmental agencies
- Consulting and advisory firms

Oilfield Service Solutions

Databases
ServiceCube
WellCube
RigCube

Analytics
Service Analytics
Rig Analytics
Well Analytics

Service Analytics is included with the ServiceCube subscription

